Journal of Music Therapy, XXVII (4), 1990, 228–229
© 1990 by the National Association for Music Therapy, Inc.

Index to Volume XXVII (1990)

The number in parentheses indicates the issue in which the article will be found; the final number indicates the page.

Beckett, A. The effects of music on exercise as determined by physiological recovery heart rates and distance; 27(3), 119.

Bernstein, B. See Clair, A. A.

Cassity, M. D., & Theobold, K. A. Domestic violence: Assessments and treatments employed by music therapists; 27(4), 179.

Clair, A. A., & Bernstein, B. A comparison of singing, vibrotactile and nonvibrotactile instrumental playing responses in severely regressed persons with dementia of the Alzheimer's type: 27(3), 102.

Darrow, A-A. The effect of frequency adjustment on the vocal reproduction accuracy of hearing impaired children; 27(1), 24.

DiGiammarino, M. Functional music skills of persons with mental retardation; 27(4), 209.

Gfeller, K., Logan, H., & Walker, J. The effect of auditory distraction and suggestion on tolerance for dental restorations in adolescents and young adults; 27(1), 13.

Grant, R. E., & McCarty, B. Emotional stages in the music therapy internship; 27(3), 102.

Hairston, M. J. P. Analyses of responses of mentally retarded autistic and mentally retarded nonautistic children to art therapy and music therapy; 27(3), 137.

Jensen, K. L., & McKinney, C. H. Undergraduate music therapy education and training: Current status and proposals for the future; 27(4), 158.

Kershner, J. R. See Morton, L. L.

Logan, H. See Gfeller, K.

Madsen, C. K. See Standley, J. M.

McCarty, B. See Grant, R. E.

McKinney, C. H. The effect of music on imagery; 27(1), 34.

McKinney, C. H. See Jensen, K. L.

Morton, L. L., Kershner, J. R., & Siegel, L. S. The potential for therapeutic applications of music on problems related to memory and attention; 27(4), 195.

Siegel, L. S. See Morton, L. L.

Journal of Music Therapy, XXVII (4), 1990, 228–229
© 1990 by the National Association for Music Therapy, Inc.

Index to Volume XXVII (1990)

The number in parentheses indicates the issue in which the article will be found; the final number indicates the page.

Beckett, A. The effects of music on exercise as determined by physiological recovery heart rates and distance; 27(3), 119.

Bernstein, B. See Clair, A. A.

Cassity, M. D., & Theobold, K. A. Domestic violence: Assessments and treatments employed by music therapists; 27(4), 179.

Clair, A. A., & Bernstein, B. A comparison of singing, vibrotactile and nonvibrotactile instrumental playing responses in severely regressed persons with dementia of the Alzheimer's type: 27(3), 102.

Darrow, A-A. The effect of frequency adjustment on the vocal reproduction accuracy of hearing impaired children; 27(1), 24.

DiGiammarino, M. Functional music skills of persons with mental retardation; 27(4), 209.

Gfeller, K., Logan, H., & Walker, J. The effect of auditory distraction and suggestion on tolerance for dental restorations in adolescents and young adults; 27(1), 13.

Grant, R. E., & McCarty, B. Emotional stages in the music therapy internship; 27(3), 102.

Hairston, M. J. P. Analyses of responses of mentally retarded autistic and mentally retarded nonautistic children to art therapy and music therapy; 27(3), 137.

Jensen, K. L., & McKinney, C. H. Undergraduate music therapy education and training: Current status and proposals for the future; 27(4), 158.

Kershner, J. R. See Morton, L. L.

Logan, H. See Gfeller, K.

Madsen, C. K. See Standley, J. M.

McCarty, B. See Grant, R. E.

McKinney, C. H. The effect of music on imagery; 27(1), 34.

McKinney, C. H. See Jensen, K. L.

Morton, L. L., Kershner, J. R., & Siegel, L. S. The potential for therapeutic applications of music on problems related to memory and attention; 27(4), 195.

Siegel, L. S. See Morton, L. L.

Standley, J. M., & Madsen, C. K. Comparison of infant preferences and responses to auditory stimuli: Music, mother, and other female voice; 27(2), 54.

Theobold, K. A. See Cassity, M. D.

Walker, J. See Gfeller, K.

Wylie, M. E. A comparison of the effects of old familiar songs, antique objects, historical summaries, and general questions on the reminiscence of nursing home residents; 27(1), 2.